

Best-Selling Author JEN HATMAKER and Award-Winning Singer/Songwriter
NICHOLE NORDEMAN Announce Fall Tour

Inviting Audiences to Live with Courage and Compassion

Booking Events for Fall 2018 NOW

With playful hilarity, shameless honesty, and refreshing insight, these good friends—messy buns and all—invite audiences in to join them for a night of lively conversation and soulful music about wrangling delight out of the mess of life. Pouring out compassion and reassurance, they remind us that all the miles along the way matter—all the pain, the tears, the late nights, the questions, and confusion. None of it is wasted as we journey closer to who we were meant to be and the dreams God has for us.

Jen is the author of the New York Times bestselling titles Of Mess and Moxie and For the Love. As “Chief BFF,” Jen knows we have incredibly strong shoulders to bear loss, hope, grief, and vision. “She laughs at the days to come” is how the ancient wisdom writings put it. “Moxie” is how Jen describes it. Nichole has sold more than 1 million albums and won 9 GMA Dove Awards, including two awards for Female Vocalist of the Year and Songwriter of the Year. The video of “Slow Down” struck a chord with parents everywhere, amassing more than 20 million views. Her songs chronicle the journey, the ups and downs of life, and not looking back with regret—but with thankfulness that God was there at every turn. “In the hands of Jesus, every one of those miles brought me to right now,” she says. “Nothing wasted. Every mile mattered.” She understands beautiful, messy, flawed and faithful community...and the safety and support offered to one another there.

In this evening experience with Jen and Nichole, you will laugh. Make new friends. Swap stories. Share struggles. Breathe. Listen. Own your mess. Stand with one another. Silence the voices of regret. Recognize that every part of your journey—every broken place—is leading to a bigger, more beautiful story. You will discover you have all the spirit you need for living a courageous, grace-filled life—grace for every mistake and weakness. Grace even for hypocrisy and shame. You will remember you are not alone. This inclusive event welcomes everyone to open their hearts and join hands with their neighbors.

This Happening Is for Those Who

- Heard the message throughout their journey that pain and failure mean they must be doing things wrong, that they messed up the rules or tricks for a seamless life.
- Face confusion and loss, missteps and catastrophic malfunctions, no matter how much they are doing "right." Struggle doesn't mean they're weak; it means they're alive.
- Find themselves tired of trying to outrun God, are exhausted by their own empty-handed search, are at the end of themselves and their options.

These Friends Offer

- Hilarious stories, frank honesty, and hope for people who are grappling with change and feel they may have lost their moxie.
- Stories of their own struggles, triumphs, and tragedies—a welcome sigh of relief for all normal, fierce travelers everywhere who want to live undaunted "in the moment," no matter what the moments hold.
- The promise that we can be honest before God as we are, not as we wish we were.

The Evening's Promise

The world is filled with angry voices shouting about our differences. For one evening, leave the noise behind. You and your friends can treat yourselves to a night out—a reminder that you can laugh at the days to come, soothe your soul, and have strength for whatever lies ahead.
